Note from the Pastor

An Open Letter to Our Confirmandi

My Dear Young Sisters and Brothers,

Good God, you're growing up! Now, how did that happen? When I arrived at Mary Queen five years ago you were little third graders having just made your First Holy Communion the year before. And now look at you. You're all grown up (sort of).

A year or two or so ago, you all hit puberty and everything began to change. Physically there were some serious changes. (I hit puberty in fifth grade and can remember my teacher saying, "Tony, you forgot your books. Tony, you forgot your pencils. Tony, you forgot to shave.") The most important changes, however, are not on the outside but on the inside. Prior to your physically maturing, you saw yourself as part of your family. Home was... well... home. It is where everything happened. It was your place of security, nourishment, love (you may not be aware of it at this moment but let me tell you unequivocally how much your parents and grandparents love you) and most important of all, your identity. You saw yourself not so much as an individual but as a member of this wonderful little unit, your family. Your primary relationships were with your mother, your father and (for better or worse) your brothers and sisters.

But that's all changing. All of a sudden you begin to see yourself as a separate, individual, unique human being. You are truly one of a kind and God made you to be you and only you (not your mother, or your father, or, God forbid, your brothers or sisters).

Now, to become this special individual you begin to leave home. Oh, you still will grab food from the fridge every day in between basketball practice, flute lessons and texting your girlfriend. Oh, you'll still sleep in that same bed but now that cell phone will be on all night just in case that very important person decides to send you a 3:00 a.m. text and, God forbid, you don't answer. While you may physically still live in your house with your parents and siblings, most of your attention is on your peers, your classmates.

How am I doing? How am I looking in their eyes? Do they like me? Do I like myself (ah, there's the rub)? Paradoxically, in becoming the individual you so strongly want to be you give up your individuality and shift the locus of power now from your parents and family to your peers. You are now exchanging an unconditional relationship with your mother and father for one that is very contingent, depending moment from moment on how you respond to all the social cues coming from other teenagers. Add to this an explosion of hormones and your wonderful adolescent life becomes one wild roller coaster.

One moment you are on the top of the world and the next moment you are in the depths of self-pity. In the process of becoming a conscious individual you have become incredibly self-conscious. You are in one wild and crazy time! You are going through your last great brain spurt and you will find yourself taking in ideas and concepts that you didn't even know existed two years ago. At one moment you will sound like a little Einstein, and at the next you will be talking trash. In one moment you are able to make a brilliant, mature decision and in the next you will do something so stupid you want to die (but you won't). Ah, adolescence.

The child becomes an adolescent when she stops asking her parents where she came from and starts telling them where to go. Adolescent means that you are growing, are in the process now of becoming an adult (the word 'adult' is hidden somewhere in adolescence, it's just hard to find). You are on the road to maturity and, not to worry, every step towards maturity by definition is immature. That's part of the deal. There is no instant maturity, instant adulthood. I know people in their 50's still working on it.

So, what does all of this have to do with my Confirmation? Everything! Adolescence is all about finding your True Self, your deepest and truest identity. That was unveiled for you tonight! At your Confirmation! When the Bishop put the Sacred Chrism on your forehead and named you, he didn't only name you the saint you chose, he gave you your deepest and most secret name, your most profound identity... as a child of God.

Your life is all about relationships. All of life is about relationships. Right now you are trying on a hundred different faces, and scores of different relationships. Some will be exhilarating, some will be disastrous. (Some will be first exhilarating and then disastrous.) But there is one that will never change. It is in you. It is you. It is the relationship between you and the Divine, between you and God. Today you were given your truest and deepest identity; that of a daughter, that of a son. And it is without condition. If you think your parents love unconditionally, wait until you experience how God loves you. My prayer is that you give Him a chance to relate to you, to experience the depth of His love, His security, His identity in you.

So, you are leaving home. Of course, you will still be living in your house for a long, long time (you had better move out by 30, though). As you leave your little domestic world, don't go alone. Bring the most important relationship with you everywhere you go. Truth is, you can't go anywhere without this relationship. Truth is, buried deep inside of you is the Christ who loves you. Truth is, there is not a more important relationship than that between you and your God. And tonight that has been sealed in you. Your holy work is to see it, know it, embrace it and say to it, "Amen." Wherever you lead me, I will go because you lead me to only one thing: Life! The fullness of Life.

In the Christ, Your Fullest and Deepest Identity,

4TH SUNDAY OF EASTER

Diocesan News

April is national Child Abuse Prevention Month, appropriately during the Easter season. There is no better time than Easter to celebrate the protection of our most valuable gift from God – our children.

The Diocese of Joliet has asked that we share with you Ten Points for Protecting Children. Today we are sharing the ninth and tenth of these ten points.

9. People can be taught to identify grooming behavior. These are the actions which abusers take to project the image that they are kind, generous, caring people, while their intent is to lure a minor into an inappropriate relationship. An abuser may develop a relationship with the family to increase his/her credibility. Abusers might show attention to the child by talking to him/her, being friendly, sharing alcohol with a minor and giving the child “status” by insinuating that the child is their favorite or “special person.” Offenders can be patient and may “groom” their victim, his or her family, or community for years.
10. Background checks work. Background checks in churches, schools and other organizations keep predators away from children both because they scare off some predators and because they uncover past actions which should ban an adult from working or volunteering with children. If an adult has had difficulty with some boundaries that society sets, such as not driving while intoxicated or not disturbing the public peace, he or she may have difficulties with other boundaries, such as not hurting a child. Never forget that offenders lie.

On Friday April 26, 2013, the Diocese of Joliet offers the day as a day of prayer and fasting for all who have been impacted by this type of tragedy.

Child Abuse Prevention Blessing

Dear Lord, We ask You to bless these Your holy people who have participated in the Church's efforts to help stop child sexual abuse. Open their hearts to Your call to be the “ears, eyes and voice of children and young people” everywhere. Give them the vision and grace needed to fulfill the special commitments that each of them has made to making their homes, churches, schools, communities and world a safer place for all God's Children. Amen
